

Team Sparkle Productions recognizes the diversity of athletes, and intentionally creates space for differences that make us unique. It is important that athletes feel comfortable within the space of our organization and that we promote the participation of all people, but especially those with a history of marginalized identities. All athletes have the right to participate fully in our events free from discrimination.

In order to participate in a Team Sparkle event you must be able to respect the identity of runners in regards to race, gender identity, physical ability, age, and body type.

Any discriminatory language and behavior should be brought to the attention of the race director as soon as it is safe to do so. Anyone found speaking or behaving in a manner that diminishes the ability for fellow athletes to participate in a safe, comfortable, and inclusive environment will be disqualified from the event and risks being banned from future Team Sparkle races.
